Dear Air Command and Staff College Class of 2008

Congratulations on your selection to attend Air Command and Staff College (ACSC)!
You can be proud of your selection to this world-class professional military education program.

The ACSC faculty and staff are dedicated to ensure that you will learn and develop skills to lead air, space, and cyberspace forces in joint/combined operations. You can expect to be challenged in the classroom through many seminars and exercises to critically think and effectively communicate as you learn and grow personally and professionally. You will also have the opportunity to interact with international officers from over sixty countries during the academic year as well as hear perspectives of our senior military and civilian leadership.

By June of 2008 you will have completed thirty-three semester credit hours toward a master degree in Military Operational Arts and Science. More importantly, you will have gained the knowledge and developed keener insights to lead our nation as we take on new 21st Century national security challenges.

I am confident you will find your assignment to ACSC both challenging and rewarding. I look forward to serving with you as we go through the academic year together.

Sincerely

JAY H. LINDELL
Brigadier General, USAF
